Council Reduces Trash Fees

By Julie BUTCHER

On Tuesday night, the Glendale City Council took unusual action and voted to reduce two previously approved increases to the solid waste fee set to go into effect on July 1, 2026 and July 1, 2027 from 10% to 4% and 3%, respectively.

In 2023, the Glendale council voted unanimously to phase in dramatically increased trash collection rates, at the time justified by rising labor, recycling and waste disposal costs, as well as new state legislation mandating the collection of organic (food) waste. The steep increases were determined to be necessary to meet future obligations and to keep the city's Refuse Fund from being depleted by FY 2024. The five-year rate adjustments approved in 2023 kicked in on July 1, 2023 with an average rate increase of 90%; an increase of 45% in 2024; and 25% in 2025.

For 2026 and 2027, the increase was approved at 10% for each year. However, based on an updated analysis of the cost of service (called a COSA), revenues are coming in higher than anticipated and expenditures are lower than expected. Therefore, staff and consultants recommend adjusting the increases to 4% on July 1, 2026 and 3% on July 1, 2027.

These increases align with the current rate of inflation and allow for a stable cash balance through 2031 and projects cash balance reserves sufficient to best manage future costs, including the closure of the Scholl Canyon landfill; improved organics diversion participation; implementation of a recycling center master plan; and electrification of the integrated waste management fleet, the consultants explained to the Council.

Councilmember Ara Najarian responded to a public comment accusing the Council of adjusting rates because of the current municipal election: "It's election season and there's a lot of discussion of utility rates."

Keeping Alive the Power of Moving Forward

By Robin GOLDSWORTHY

The newly created Charles K. Beatty Memorial Scholarship was awarded to a local student.

Charles "Charlie" Beatty loved the community. He was a regular fixture at the Ralph's supermarket on Foothill Boulevard in La Crescenta and donated his time with the Montrose Chamber of Commerce, the Santa Monica [Mountains] Conservancy, was part of the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Advisory Council, served for a time on the Crescenta Valley Water District board and was on the Crescenta Valley Town Council (CVTC).

It was especially fitting then that on Thursday night, May 14, his daughter Allister Traber presented Crescenta Valley High School student Aaron Mendoza with the first Charles K. Beatty Memorial Scholarship.

Charlie died on March 1 and presenting the scholarship annually will keep his memory alive.

"My parents, Charlie and Andrea, would donate every year to the CV Town Council scholarship," recalled Traber. "They liked to make sure all students had the ability to attend any college, whether a tech school, a community college or a university."

centa Valley and attend either Crescenta Valley or Clark Magnet high schools will be eligible to apply for the scholarship.

Presenting the scholarship was a last minute opportunity, Traber said. Kerri Lewin Brautigam, corresponding secretary of the CV Town Council, reached out to her to let her know that the opportunity existed for the creation of the scholarship in memory of Charlie. Allister and her husband Kevin eagerly accepted.

"I think we'll give it out via the town council every year," Traber said. "We would like to encourage students to participate."

Traber had nothing but praise for the town council.

"The people on the CVTC are so passionate," she said adding that so many people spoke so highly about her dad during Thursday night's meeting.

"It made me feel so good to hear about my dad," she said. She said that one of the council members said she only wanted to go to his checkout line when he was working at Ralphs.

"It's a caring community," she said about the Crescenta Valley. "That's what the community is all about."

The scholarship is $500 and no fundraisers are planned for it. Traber said that her family will continue awarding the scholarship as long as there are funds to support it, which will come mainly from her and her husband.

"It's a nice way to recognize the students and encourage them to move forward," she said about the scholarship adding that giving it via the town council was really "enjoyable."

"It was really heartwarming," she said. "It's important to have the students put their voice out there."

A celebration of life for Charles Beatty is planned for Sept. 12 with details to come.

E-Bike Discussion Hosted by CVTC

By Mary O'KEEFE

On Monday the Crescenta Valley Town Council hosted law enforcement in a talk about e-bikes and e-motors.

The talk began with officers from California Highway Patrol explaining the difference between e-bikes, e-scooters and e-motors and the laws that apply to each classification.

"Our big thing is that we are looking to provide safety, security and a service to the communities," said CHP Officer Katherine Hendry.

She told the audience not to be afraid to ask questions – and the audience did ask questions including teens who wanted to talk about their e-bikes.

"There are three different levels of e-bikes. Level three is the one that's considered the one that goes really fast and is considered to be the most dangerous right now," she said.

The three different class levels of e-bikes are:

How Time Flies

My youngest son and his wife celebrated their wedding anniversary this past weekend. I thought back to the day when they got married (in Camarillo) and what life was like in their early days (prior to the arrival of their two kids). Of course, I also thought of my wedding.

It's hard to believe that in April Steve and I celebrated 45 years of marriage. (As an aside, thank you to those who sent cards and well wishes; I really appreciate it.) We got married at St. Charles Borromeo Catholic Church in North Hollywood and on the altar were both my priest and Steve's minister (unusual at the time).

I remember walking down the aisle after being married. I whispered to Steve to switch his wedding ring to his other hand. I was so nervous during the ceremony that I put his ring on the wrong hand!

Our reception was held at the Hilton in Sherman Oaks (now a Marriott that can be seen from the 405 Freeway). My nephews (who are now nearing 50 – if they haven't already crested that) as toddlers danced at our wedding.

I also remember that the food was fantastic. We had a buffet and from what I recall the food was delicious.

My dad had died just a couple of years earlier and my mom didn't have a lot of money set aside for my wedding. I think she was able to give us $2,000, which I thought was a bundle.

I bought my dress in downtown Los Angeles at the corner of Broadway and 3rd Street. It was $300 and on the cover of Brides magazine. I remember it had a "sweetheart neckline" and to this day the dress is boxed and stored on the shelf of our closet.

We had a rainbow wedding, meaning the bridesmaids wore different colors (yellow, pink, blue and green) and thankfully all agreed on a dress. I was 20 years old at the time and couldn't afford to buy their dresses!

Our wedding wasn't without drama; I remember crying on Steve's shoulder because I thought my mother didn't like my wedding dress. I also tossed out from the wedding the gal who was to wear peach because she got me mad. (We made up years later.)

The one thing I do question is how many years Steve and I have been married. It seems to me that only "old people" have been married for as many years as we have ... and I certainly don't consider myself old!

Hopefully my son and his wife will celebrate 45 years, too – and marvel at being "old!"

» WEATHER WATCH

Taking A Look Outside Our Window

By Mary O'KEEFE

This month is Wildfire Awareness Month but in our area it is mostly a year round awareness. There is not one month, week or day that we do not think about fire.

The Crescenta Valley is in the middle of two mountain ranges that are spectacular and, with the rains we've had, they are green and full of vegetation. That is a double-edged sword because we know as the weather warms the green we've seen will quickly turn brown. Even with green vegetation the chance of wildfires in California, and throughout the nation, is high.

According to the National Interagency Fire Center, on May 14 there were 118 "new" fires reported and 16 large fires that were still burning nationwide.

"So far this year, 25,568 fires have burned more than 1.9 million acres nationwide. New large fires were reported in New Mexico, Nebraska, Wyoming and Texas," according to the National Interagency Fire Center.

As of May 20, CalFire had 1,479 wildfires reported with 40,848 acres burned. These include the Santa Rosa Island Fire that began on May 15 and is 26% contained as of May 20, the Sandy Fire that began on May 1 and is 15% contained, and the Kirby Fire that began on May 19.

With fire comes smoke, which we can smell throughout the area. As of press time, the Air Quality Management District (AQMD) had a Wildfire Smoke Advisory and Air Quality Alert for west and east San Bernardino County and west San Gabriel Valley including Burbank, Northridge, Glendale, Sunland-Tujunga, Universal City, Pasadena, La Cañada Flintridge and La Crescenta/Montrose.

This is due to four fires: Verona Fire and Bain Fire in Riverside, Sandy Fire in Ventura near Simi Valley and the Santa Rosa Island

Fire, which is part of the Channel Islands. The advisory continued through Wednesday and it is pretty certain it will be extended.

"Smoke impacts have primarily been in the moderate air quality index (AQI) category," according to the AQMD.

We are in the area of "potential direct smoke impact."

"Smoke from the Santa Rosa Island Fire that is already over the ocean is expected to come onshore overnight impacting the entire coastline of Los Angeles and Orange Counties leading to moderate AQI category over a wide area. Areas adjacent to the Sandy Fire may reach the unhealthy for sensitive groups AQI category or higher. Smoke impacts can vary over time and by location. If you see ash or smell smoke, take precautions to protect your health," AQMD reported on Wednesday.

It was expected that smoke conditions would improve on Wednesday in areas not adjacent to the active fires.

For those who are sensitive to smoke the AQMD has tips: Limit your exposure by remaining indoors with windows and doors closed or seek alternate shelter. Avoid vigorous physical activity. Run air conditioning and/or an air purifier. If possible, do not use swamp coolers or house fans that bring in outside air. Avoid burning wood in your fireplace or fire pit. Minimize sources of indoor air pollution, such as candles, incense, pan-frying and grilling. If you must be outside, a properly fitting N95 or P100 respirator may provide some protection.

According to NOAA, winds are expected to shift today blowing west to east. Any smoke from the Sandy Fire will be headed our way. Of course, this all depends on how contained the fire is during Wednesday night.

We will be seeing winds in the morning and overnight at 10 to 15 mph gusts. Temperatures will be cooling down from the 80s today to the low to mid 70s Friday through Tuesday.
